Dr. Goesel Anson, one of Las Vegas' Top Doctors in Plastic Surgery, believes it critical to thoroughly discuss realistic expectations with your surgeon. There has been an explosion in media attention to plastic surgery including magazines and television. Dr. Anson has been featured on television programs for Discovery, The Learning Channel and the BBC. "The attention provides a great opportunity for education. People are coming to realize that small interventions such as skin care, fillers and Botox can produce remarkable results with little to no down time. I now perform surgical procedures such as variations on the facelift and eyelid surgery on much younger patients than was routine 20 years ago. I think that is consistent with a population that wants their appearance to reflect their vitality."

society. "Body sculpting is not an alternative to diet and exercise, but rather an adjunct." Dr. Higgins has also witnessed a dramatic increase in men seeking cosmetic surgery and services. "Men are coming in record numbers to our office. Our male patients are at the top of their game and want their appearance to reflect it."

Sometimes it seems that every medical profession is exploring plastic surgery as a sideline. Smart patients research credentials and results. Goesel Anson, MD is board certified with the American Board of Plastic Surgery and the American Board of Surgery. Trained in plastic surgery at New York University, Dr. Anson has been listed in the Best Doctors in America and Best Doctors in Las Vegas. Terry Higgins, MD trained in both general surgery and plastic surgery at Michigan State. He also completed additional aesthetic training at the world famous Cleveland Clinic. Both physicians perform all procedures, but Dr. Anson presently concentrates on facial plastic surgery while Dr. Higgins' practice emphasizes body contouring.

Dr. Terry Higgins believes the popularity of body contouring procedures such as liposuction, tummy tucks and breast surgery also reflect a more active, health conscious
